WEBSITE UPDATES

You may have noticed some changes on our website; there is no longer a "Podcast tab". When you open the homepage, you will now see a box that shows the sermon date and title. Scroll over the one you want to listen to and click, sit back and enjoy. If you are wanting to listen to older sermons; go to the "media tab", click on sermons in the drop down menu and it will bring them up also by date and title, again scroll over the one you want to listen to and click.

Appreciation & Thanks

We would like to thank everyone who came to the "Baked Potato Bar" on April 17, to those who purchased soda/water, and to anyone who gave a donation towards our mission trip to the Dominican Republic. We collected enough funds, that the trip is now paid for! The generosity of the Church Family here at Hammer Memorial will never cease to amaze us. Again thank you all so very much,

Danielle & Maria Washburn, Jessie Homerding and Kennedy Tunks

SAVED BUT NOT FEELING IT

By Gene Hinrichsen

If we think that salvation will make us feel good then we are greatly mistaken. There are times when our salvation in Jesus Christ excites us and gets us pumped up, but many times we feel nothing.

One person can be having a mountain top experience day with the Lord while someone else is having an average, run of the mill day. I am learning that I must remain faithful to Jesus in the plain, common, ordinary days. Time can drag on in the mundane drudgery of daily living but I must still keep ministering and living for Him. My salvation is not based on my moods or my feelings. The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ is not attached to my health or sickness, not even my motivation or lack thereof. I am saved when I am tired, weary and even when I am asleep. I am just as much saved when I feel absolutely nothing as when I am bursting in my spirit with his peace and joy.

Salvation is more of a fact than it is a feeling. Feelings are fickle and most of the time based on our carnal emotional outlook of life. The fact is that Jesus Christ redeemed us; we have been purchased at a high price. He bought us and He owns us, some days that stirs emotion in us and some days our emotions meter is totally shut off, measuring a whooping zero!

I guess some people look at salvation as a one way ticket to heaven. Hold on to that ticket and flash it at the pearly gates and get in free as a bird. If salvation is like a ticket then I have to do something to get it or earn it. I can't earn my ticket with good deeds or a perfect worship attendance record at the church of my choice. My salvation is based on the solid fact that Jesus paid for me with His life and blood. Accepting that fact and trusting that fact is really what matters not my feelings or experience, they count but they can't always be trustworthy. Placing my faith in the fact of Christ paying for me with His life on the cross is the main essential. I don't always feel saved, some days I feel completely lost and that is when I must go back to the fact that Jesus bought me and I am His. The enemy of my soul wants to convince me that I need to do something more; maybe pray for a couple hours or read the Bible for an hour or witness to a Jehovah witness and take in a couple of homeless people to live in my basement. If I do more I will feel more, but it is not about me it is about the gift He has given me. Salvation is a gift from God and sometimes the newness of the gift wears off and I just have to keep the gift and remember that it is always there. Salvation does not stop being a gift just because I am bored or I feel sad or lousy. The gift my kids gave me for my birthday does not stop being a gift just because I am depressed this week.

In Christ,
Pastor Gene
